Jewish women disciples, including Mary Magdalene, Joanna, and Susanna, had accompanied Jesus during his ministry and supported him out of their private means (Luke 8:1-3).

Paul greets Prisca, Junia, Julia, and Nereus' sister, who worked and traveled as missionaries in pairs with their husbands or brothers (Romans 16:3, 7, 15). He tells us that Prisca and her husband risked their lives to save his. He praises Junia as a prominent member, who had been imprisoned for her labor. Mary and Persis are commended for their hard work (Romans 16:6, 12). Euodia and Syntyche are called his fellow-workers in the gospel (Philippians 4:2-3).

Though there are prohibitions for women performing certain duties, or holding authoritative positions, such as elders or deacons, they are great assets in the church.

Most important is their roles in motherhood. This we gain from the testimony of Mary and Elizabeth, and God choosing them to mother the two most prominent men in the history of the world, John and Jesus. John was the greatest of the prophets, and Jesus, the king of kings.
